O que fazer antes de começar o vídeo?

O problema:

A obesidade já atinge XX% de adolescentes no Brasil e vem crescendo a cada ano, o que aumenta o risco de doenças como diabetes, pressão alta. Com a mudança da alimentação podemos mudar esta história e você pode nos ajudar financiando esta ideia!

O que faremos?

A partir de 2016, alunos e professores da FSP/USP farão atividades e vivências sobre alimentação e sustentabilidade com adolescentes de escolas públicas de São Paulo, usando suas dúvidas e experiências para criar uma rede de informações e sustentação para promover mudanças significativas no hábito de adolescentes e suas redes de contatos.

Uma vez que o consumo de frutas e hortaliças é muito baixo, e o consumo de carne e alimentos com alto teor de açúcar e gordura é elevado nesta população, o que também gera grande impacto no meio ambiente.

pretendemos alcançar cerca de 5000 pessoas, podendo reduzir em mais 12 mil toneladas de gases de efeito estufa/ano, equivalente a poluição gerada por um carro percorrendo 64 milhões de km, além da redução significativa no risco de doenças como obesidade, câncer, diabetes e doenças do coração, contribuindo para uma vida mais longa em um planeta mais saudável.

Da onde surgiu?

Em 2012, um grupo de pesquisa da Faculdade de Saúde Pública da USP verificou que o consumo de carne era muito alto pela população e isso poderia aumentar risco de doenças e prejudicar o meio ambiente.

A partir daí, um grupo de pessoas da USP elaborou o projeto Dia Sem Carne com objetivo que de discutir e reduzir o consumo de carne.

Em parceria com restaurante universitário, foram realizadas diversas intervenções com a retirada da carne do cardápio além de oficinas e palestras, o que resultou em 70% de aprovação do projeto e 50% de mudança de hábito
