GOOD GRIEF

The top staff shows a trill with notes labeled Tr and Tr. Below it, the word SIGH is written in a stylized font with a pair of eyes underneath. To the right, a diagram shows a vertical line with an arrow pointing right, and a series of circles below it connected by lines, resembling a bell or a sound effect. Below this diagram, the word DONG DONG DONG is written in a bold, stylized font.

The main section features a musical staff with a treble clef and a key signature of one flat. The lyrics are Sem-pre li-be-ra deg-g'i-o fol-leg-g. Above the staff, there are guitar diagrams: a circle with vertical lines, a grid with a diagonal line, and another circle with vertical lines. A hand is shown playing a guitar. Below the staff, the lyrics She's got a tick-et to ride — She's got are written. To the left of the staff, the text tsk is written in a box. At the bottom, there are several circles and a small diagram of a guitar headstock.
